Devil-Goat Day

Sometime within the next sixty - three hours some new sounds will be heard. They will be in reply to DEVIL-GOAT DAY. So grab your colors and your roommate and head for the old burial ground - Seacobeck! Remember, it's Green and Yellow for the GOATS and Red and White for the DEVILS. You simply WON'T be in vogue unless your colors are showing. So gals, let's let them really SHOW!

DEVIL-GOAT DAY lasts all day long and most of the evening. So be prepared for a DEVIL-GOAT LUNCHEON at 1:00, RELAY RACES at 4:00, STUDENT-FACULTY SOFTBALL GAME at 4:45, a BUFFET-PICNIC at 5:30 and a DEVIL-GOAT RALLY.

The DEVIL-GOAT LUNCHEON will be special in that the GOATS and DEVILS will be served in certain units. The Pink and North Blue will be for the DEVILS; the Green and the South Blue will be for the GOATS. All dining halls will be properly marked to ward off any wanderings of "foreign elements." Flags, hats, "Horns," "Goatees," cheers and cheerleaders will be the entree.

All classes will be excused to attend the DEVIL-GOAT RELAY RACES at 4:00 P. M. The Hockey Field will be the scene of competition between the teams racing against Father-time to win the Potatoe, Blind Man, Sack, Foot Dribble, Off and On, Three-legged and Laundry Races. The winner of each of these seven relays is to be awarded one point toward her team score. The Recreation Association Judges for the events will be Mr. Carter, Mr. Kelly and Mr. Pitman. May the best "Man" win.

The informal attire for the STUDENT-FACULTY PICNIC, Y. W. C. A. and R. A. activities will be Bermuda shorts, gym suits, summer slacks and pedal pushers. Remember, a skirt must be worn over your informal dress on the way to and from the picnic area. The DEVIL-GOAT STUDENT-FACULTY SOFTBALL GAME will follow the RELAY RACES. The faculty will be divided into DEVILS and GOATS according to the year of their arrival.

The annual SKIT given by the faculty members will precede the Buffet-Picnic. Food will be served at 5:30 P. M., after which the MWC Band, under the direction of Mr. Faulkner, will lead us in a rousing march to the Amphitheater.

The DEVIL-GOAT PEP RALLY will climax the year's contest between the competing rival teams. The scores at the moment stand GOATS 3, DEVILS 1. Extra points can be earned in the Treasure Hunt to be conducted at the Rally; by winning the Balloon Contest; by putting on the best DEVIL-GOAT SKIT. Lois Prime, who will be wearing the colors of a neutral-white, will conduct the finale to the day's activities. The winner of the 1954-1955 DEVIL-GOAT DAY will be announced at the close of the RALLY.

This year, as last year, STUDENT-FACULTY and DEVIL-GOAT DAY have been combined. Your three Hostesses are: Student Government which is responsible for the FACULTY SKIT, the BUFFET-PICNIC and the sending of invitations; Y. W. C. A., which is providing games for the faculty children; and Recreation Association, which is responsible for DEVIL-GOAT DAY proper. They want to thank Mr. Robinson for his help and suggestions in the food line and all others whose cooperation make this DEVIL-GOAT STUDENT-FACULTY DAY possible.

Mrs. Bowers Renown Author Speaks at M.W.C.

In an interview following the Convocation at which she spoke Mrs. Bowers compared a story to a cake. Various ingredients such as butter, eggs, and flour are put into a cake. When the cake comes out of the oven the cake is whole and is not separated into its components parts. Like a cake a story can not be separated into the parts which are purely fictional and the parts which the author has drawn from real life. Mrs. Bowers said that there is no particular type of person she enjoys writing about. She writes more for a specific purpose than merely to entertain.

Mrs. Bowers was the first woman regular news reporter on the New York Times. There were at the time she became a reporter women reporters in such departments as religion and fashion but there were no women reporters with regular "news beats." One of Mrs. Bower's duties was to report on the activities of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. She said that this was an interesting assignment. However, she found Mrs. Roosevelt hard to keep up with since Mrs. Roosevelt had her own car and Mrs. Bowers, as a reporter, had to travel by subway.

Mrs. Bowers said that there are opportunities for women in the field of journalism. She stated that women are not discriminated against in this field to-day. There are many women reporters now on the New York Times. Mrs. Bowers emphasized that in order to obtain a job as a reporter one must have a college education.

Mrs. Fredson Bowers, well-known author of short stories and novels, spoke on the relation between the writing of a novel and the writing of a short story at the Convocation program sponsored by Alpha Phi Sigma on Wednesday, April 27.

Mrs. Bowers, known by her readers as Nancy Hale, said that the essence of creativeness is in its newness. She said that creative writing should have a vibration of significance.

She stated that time is important in both the novel and the short story but that time is important in different ways in these two kinds of writing. In the short story time is the interrupter. In the novel time is the principal element because the events are cumulative and are diffused throughout the book. In the short story a crisis is the story. However, in the novel there may be many crises diffused throughout the writing.

Mrs. Bowers compared the novel and short story in several ways. She said that the novel was slow and steady like marriage while the short story was like love. She also compared the novel to knowledge of a whole house and each of its rooms. She said that the short story was like the knowledge of only one room of a dwelling.

She said that there are three processes involved in the writing of a novel. The first is finding the idea; the second is constructing the story; the third is putting feeling into the story and its characters.

Classes meeting five days a week should follow the schedule for M, W, F classes. Examinations in laboratory courses should be held according to the hours scheduled for the lecture meeting of the class.

All examinations should be pledged by the student.

Examinations should be given by the professor teaching the course in the classroom in which the class ordinarily meets.

Livin' Right

A happy-go-lucky lesson in how to live was presented by freshman amateur philosophers last week. The theme "Livin' Right" was carried out by six college girls who toured the United States on a shoe-string. Inspired by the homey advice of a plump colored mammy, the girls left Fredericksburg to see how the rest of the country was living.

Traveling by train, they arrived in Tennessee to hear first hand the legend of "Davy Crockett." A high pressure salesman talked them into buying an antique jalopy. Next, the students were off to see how people in South Carolina were living. A chorus of flappers told them the success story of "Sweet Georgia Brown," a southern belle who topped them all at dancin' the "Charleston."

Comedy was provided by a lively scene in the Okefenokee Swamps where Pogo wanted to start a school. While in Florida, the girls found the romantic mood was contagious. Six starry-eyed students listened dreamily as a quartet crooned about the "Moon Over Miami." From genuine blues fans in New Orleans, the travelers learned the bop, a dance which was raging throughout the South.

Some highly indignant young ladies informed them that contrary to public opinion Texans are "So Refined." Not to be out-done by the famous Texas bragging, a few loyal Arizonans boasted of their notorious gangster, "Ragtime Cowboy Joe," who wasn't really "Livin' Right," but was having fun anyway. At the end of a perfect day, the wanderers decided to spend the night camping on the desert sand.

Determined not to miss anything, the sight-seers took a tour of a Hollywood studio where a movie was being produced. They learned that girls everywhere are singing those "Argyle Blues" while knitting socks for the men in their lives. Highlights of the trip included an encounter of a saucy little miss named "Salome Western Style" and an interview with Louella Parsons. The fabulous Louella introduced them to Zsa Zsa Gabor, Marlon Brando, and Imogene Coca.

Because the Juniors had seen everything there was to see in Ohio, the girls just mentioned that state in their itinerary and went on to Pennsylvania to meet the Pennsylvania Dutch. Becoming quite high brow, the travelers attended a rehearsal at Carnegie Hall, where the finest singers and dancers in the land were performing under one roof. While in the little fishing villages of New England the girls met a young lover waiting for her sweetheart's boat to come in. When the "Red Sails in the Sunset" came into view, the students continued their journey to a crystal clear inland lake, where they learned that an "Ugly Duckling" usually turns into a graceful white swan.

In Delaware they learned how to "Wash That Man Right Out of Your Hair." Still trying to forget that lost love, the girls almost decided to enroll at Annapolis. Home at last, they enjoyed a modern dance that expressed the importance of tobacco in Virginia's history. Filled with appreciation of a "Wonderful Land," the wanderers ended their journey in Washington, D. C. Strains of "This Is My Country" led up to the finale which concluded that "Livin' Right" is really the only way to be happy.

The Marine who kept his winter underwear for summer use wasn't so dumb. It now cools his beer.

He wraps the cans in the partwoolies, dumps it all in a pall of water, sets the collection in a wooden box and drapes two Turkish towels across the top so they will pick up water.

The hotter the day, the faster the evaporation. And the evaporation lowers the temperature of the beer.

It is not known if any other Marine in Korea kept his winter underwear.

R. A. ACTIVITIES

The Mary Washington dance groups want to wish two prominent members of Concert Dance the best of luck in their forthcoming year of teaching. Sally Hanger and Minnie Rainey both have been offered excellent instructor positions at the University of George and Pembroke College respectively. Sally will be Instructor of Dance and Physical Education at the University in Athens, Georgia. As of late no dance is being taught. Sally feels that she will have a wonderful challenge and an opportunity to create and initiate interest in dance and its counterparts. Minnie Rainey is going North to Providence, Rhode Island. She will be Dance Instructor at Pembroke College, the women's division of Brown University. (We all hope that it is not as far away as U Va.) Minnie is currently from Lynchburg, Virginia but will move to a place called West Point, Mississippi after graduation. She describes it as "a town of ten thousand people with a whole lot of cows and cotton."

Our M. W. C. dance groups have not only been well rated artistically but by celebrity-wise as well. In August of last year Miss Georgia Crawford — "Miss Roanoke" — ran for the Miss Virginia title. In the Junior Dance group Miss Jeannine Raymond — Queen of the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D. C. — was "Miss Maine" of '55. Carol Pope was nationally seen on the screen when she made her television debut on the Horace Heidt Show over Easter. Sue Straughan, from here in Fredericksburg, walked off with the goodies during Alumni Week End when she was crowned Homecoming Queen. Miss Mary Lou Fletcher and Miss Marilyn Stacy (of Horace Heidt fame) will do their Colonial routines in "The Common Glory" this summer. Jo Duplin has been offered the Recreation Association's annual scholarship to the Connecticut School of American Dance this summer. If she accepts she will then show gals what she learned in dance class this coming fall.

APRIL 30th BIG WEEK END OF M. W. OUTING CLUB

The Mary Washington Outing Club has plans for two big trips next week end. The most important of which is the International Outing Club Annual Conference held at Cranberry Lake near Syracuse, New York. Club representatives will be sent by all member colleges in the United States and Canada. Princeton, Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth, U. of Va., M. I. T., Vassar, Smith, Wheaton, Randolph-Macon and the University of Penn. are just a few of the colleges which will be present. At this conference representatives will discuss club organization, accept new clubs as members, elect new officers, and decide on the meeting place for next year. All is not work however, there will be caving, hiking, swimming, square dancing, mountain climbing, and team sports. Shirley Ann Lee, club president, will represent Mary Washington this year.

The other trip to Davis, West Virginia is one of the regularly scheduled activities. They will be the guests of Rev. and Mrs. Barton, who have loaned them the use of their cabin. Seven girls from M. W. C. will meet with the University members in Charlottesville both Friday and Saturday mornings. From there they will drive to the camp site. There will be caving, mountain climbing, swimming, classes in fly-casting, and square dancing, as well as the usual outdoor cooking, group singing, and general fun and frolic.

This is the first week - end planned by the new club officers. If it is any indication of the activities of the coming year, the Mary Washington Outing Club has a bright and promising future.

The R. A. softball chairman, Dot Gaver, has a new program to offer you. This program will consist of informal softball games. It will eliminate the tournament games of done teams. Individual teams will be organized on the basis of those who come each day. The hockey field will be available every MONDAY, TUESDAY and THURSDAY at 4:00 P. M. Come on out and get in on the fun. In the event that the weather is bad or the ground wet games will not be played.

Angela Walton To Head Oriental Club

On April 19, the Oriental Club elected Angela Walton, a junior from Richmond, Va., to head the staff of officers for the 1955-56 session. Deane Ford, former president of the club, was elected vice-president. Other officers on the slate are Suzanne O'Brien, secretary, and Ellen Brown, treasurer. The new officers took office on May 1 and an installation service will be held at a later date. Dr. Clifton B. McIntosh is acting sponsor of the club until the return of Dr. Kurt F. Leidecker in June.

There are many and varied plans for the club's future progress, and it will open membership to a large number of students who express a definite interest in the organization. During the club's first year the membership was limited to a small number, but due to the fact that many students have expressed their interest in the club, it is looking forward to expanding and offering its varied and interesting activities to more students in the coming session.

One highlight of Mary Washington's Alumnae Weekend this year was the crowning of the first Homecoming Queen. This new plan was a project of "Y" on campus to help raise money for our contribution to the National YWCA Centennial Fund. The Y.W.C.A. in the United States is celebrating one hundred years of faithful service to the women of America this year, and each member organization is making a contribution.

Candidates for the Queen came from each of the classes, one from the Alumnae Daughters, and one from the town girls. Sue Straghan, the town representative, became our first Homecoming Queen. In the future years we hope to continue with the same practice. Instead of using ballots, girls wishing to vote for their favorite candidate vote with pennies. The total raised for the Y was $38.00. With more publicity, we hope that next year's contest will be even more successful.

Following her presentation, the Queen was presented with 18 American Beauty roses from the Administration, and a carton of Philip Morris cigarettes given by Angela Walton, college representative.

Students are reminded of the "Y" sponsored programs on Radio Station WMWC, each Tuesday, at 4:45 P. M. "This I Believe" is its title, and its theme is personal religious faith and beliefs.

The YWCA believes that the most important phase of any student's life is that part wherein she seeks within herself for a deeper meaning of life and its values, and by so doing, is able to look up, reach out, and project the light of her inner self into the world around her. It is then that she can say with confidence: This I Believe.

Ohio State

Columbus, O.—(I. P.) — Dean William S. Guthrie is now in the midst of a new fulltime assignment—the collection of case histories of administrative headaches which plague college and university presidents. The Ohio State University staffer, who is director of orientation programs and junior dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, is undertaking the unusual research project for the Institute of College and University Administrators to be conducted this summer at Harvard University.

Sponsored by the Association of American Colleges, the Institute has been established as an experiment to learn whether case-problem type discussions, used successfully in professional schools, might also be used effectively in conferences of senior academic administrators.

First session of the Institute, which is supported by the Carnegie Corporation, will be held June 19-24 at Harvard. Director is Prof. Robert W. Merry of the Harvard Business School. Dean Guthrie, working under the supervision of Prof. Merry, has been interviewing college and university presidents in Midwestern and Eastern states to collect data on major administrative problems. Descriptions of these problems, disguised to prevent identification of the institutions, will be written in case form and will serve as the basis of the Institute's discussions.

Dean Guthrie's interest in the upcoming Institute stems from his participation in a similar conference held last summer at Harvard for deans of students.

Revised Curriculum At Stevens Institute

Hoboken, N. J.—(I. P.)—The revised curriculum for the undergraduate program at Stevens Institute of Technology was approved recently at a meeting of the entire faculty. This approval culminated over two years of work by the faculty curriculum committee, a group headed by President Jess H. Davis.

The revised curriculum (still to lead to the degree of Mechanical Engineer) is effective with the class of 1958. This group, now freshmen, is already taking the modified first year program, which was passed by the faculty last year.

As with the freshman program almost all recitation subjects have been revised to three contact hours; with more outside attention and work being expected of each student. In addition, a few courses have been scrapped completely, some added, and still others offered in different terms.

A required senior physics course is planned as well as a course in physical chemistry. One civil engineering recitation has been omitted as has the cost accounting work in economics. The Industrial Engineering Department has added a required recitation course in "Manufacturing Processes," however, which will cover some book-keeping. An added term of a humanities elective is also a new feature.

President Davis also revealed that the Mathematics, Chemistry and Physics Departments of the Institute have announced plans to extend their graduate courses to enable students to obtain doctorates in those subjects. The new program will go into effect at the start of the fall, 1955 term.

Organ Guild

The Student Group of the American Guild of Organists is to be headed next year by Marlene Bost. Peggy Kelley will be secretary - treasurer and Dorothy Sneed will be in charge of programs and publicity. The following organists will present a program in Monroe Auditorium May 9 at 7:00 P. M.: Marilyn Stacey, Sally Boyce, Patricia Whitmire, Lydia Motley, Lois Lambert, Joyce Stallard, Jolene Moyer and Gene Hurt.

Sigma Lau Delta elected the following on April 21, at the home of Dr. George Shankle: President, Penny Taylor; Vice President, Ozlie Mask; Secretary Marion Lee, and Treasurer Cynthia Michaels.

MWC Choir

The M.W.C. Choir will present a program of sacred and secular music at the Convocation program on May 4.

Solos will be given by Nancy Brogren, Elizabeth Stanton, Libby Foster, Marianne Corriher, and Jean Ashe. The accompanist will be Anne Bost.

Betty Rose has recently been elected president of this group. Betty is a sophomore from Clifton Forge, Va. She is a music major and is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, the band, and the Glee Club.

Alpha Psi Omega

Alphas Psi Omega and the M. W. C. Players have elected officers for next year.

Alpha Psi Omega's officers are: President, Sue Canter; Vice-President, Pat Waltz; Secretary-Treasurer, Carolyn Martin.

The M. W. C. Player's officers are: President, Pat Waltz; General Stage Manager, Sue Canter; Vice-President, Jo Dubin; Secretary, Mary Avery; Treasurer, Janet Stuart; Social Chairman, Jackie Lou Jones.

Cooperative Work Report Praised

Boston, Mass.—(I. P.)—The cooperative work report competition, sponsored by the Engineering Council of Northeastern University, has been praised by the deans of liberal arts and business administration and eventually may be adopted by these colleges on a similar basis. All engineering students are involuntarily entered in the competition when they submit their work reports.

The purpose of the program is to increase interest on the part of the student and to extend recognition to those preparing outstanding papers. The competition will be divided into two groups; middle, juniors and seniors in one group and sophomores writing their "Job Analyses" in the other.

Divisions A and B will not be in competition with one another. Two sets of awards will be presented each year. All reports will be submitted to an intensive screening process, and co-ordinators, as well as department heads, will inspect the reports.

Last year, Northeastern students earned over $3,000,000 with a large increase in the number of firms seeking co-op students.

Physical Therapy

The Physical Therapy Club visited St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington on April 19 and the Baruch Center of the Medical College of Richmond on April 23.

On the trip to St. Elizabeth's Hospital the students saw physical therapy being practiced in a mental hospital. They also saw hydrotherapy, diathermy therapy, dance therapy, and occupational therapy in practice. The chaperon for this trip was Miss Hoyer.

At the Baruch Center of the Medical College of Richmond the students attended an open house. They heard lectures by Miss Hurt and Dr. Park of the Physical Therapy School and toured the Center. They attended a reception and learned about student life and activities at the Center. Miss Hoyer and Miss Leonard were the chaperons for the trip.

Capt. Littauer Aids And Grades Riders

From the first day in September that the new crop of riders straddled the horses at Oak Hill Stables, they heard excited whispers that HE would be coming in April. The famous and revered HE who would pass judgment by condemning or praising the MWC jockeys at last made an appearance—Captain Vladimir S. Littauer, international equine authority, author and lecturer, spent two stimulating days at Oak Hill on April 1 and 22 as guest instructor and supercharged the riders with ambitions and information.

A few days before his arrival, the girls spent worried and flurried hours whitewashing fences, cleaning tack, working on their riding positions (hoping not to be told that they were mounted pedestrians), re-reading his books and biting their nails. After the cook crew prepared a fabulous fried egg-and-sausage breakfast Thursday morning for the Captain and all riders, however, and he began to instruct the first stuffed-but-shaking class, everyone relaxed, for his humorous, congenial, authoritative manner encouraged everyone to listen and learn.

Captain Littauer worked on position that morning and offered demonstrations and helpful tips on the various gaits and over fences. Bravely composing the first afternoon class, a group of beginners progressed so well (under the Captain's and student instructors' guidance) that they scarcely noticed their aching muscles. Ending Thursday's classes was a lesson on control—stabilization of horses, voice control, extended trot, and canter departures—in which both horses and riders responded well.

Two truck loads of riders gathered at Oak Hill that night for an informal question-and-answer session with Captain Littauer. Arming himself with only a bottle of coke, the Captain was attacked by barrages of questions from both beginners and advanced riders and emerged victorious—that is, he clearly explained and untangled any riding problems the girls had. Captain Littauer possesses a keen analytical mind and the schooling group of riders waited apprehensively on Friday morning for their horses to be criticized. Cyn Michaels and Marion Lee who reclaimed Sedan and Teke were highly praised for their fine tactful riding and commendable jobs done on the horses. Alphabet, Cynthia Stone's high-jumping "problem child" was psychoanalyzed by Littauer and showed promising progress of being reclaimed by patient work. Only schooled since Jan, Sandy Zick's charge, Treu, exhibited excellent stabilization and Sandy's beaming face showed that she was rewarded for her hard work. Next horse to be seen was Judy Cornwall's Ike whose walk and extended trot were worked upon and greatly improved. Russell Walther, Jr. then demonstrated his week's work with Echo Flag, a well-developed 3 year old thoroughbred.

Ahhh—that noon call for chow was mighty welcome. Heaping plates of potato salad (a la Mrs. Walther), and fried chicken filled adequately the empty gaps and the iced tea braced everyone (including several guests—some Quantico Marines, Funny Newbill and Mrs. Carol Bailey Miller, ex-Hoof Print alumnae, and Mrs. Harris, Miss Moran and Miss Smith) for the scorching afternoon of work.

The horses and girls jumped fence after fence under the watchful eye of Captain Littauer. Riders learned to "glue the boots"—horses learned not to "make goo-goo eyes" while jumping and all jockeys checked and corrected their small faults. Puffing, but pleased, the riders can thank Captain Littauer for any future dreams of jumping the Grand National in PERFECT form.

Into the ring next filed the contestants for the Program Ride (The Hoof Prints Alumnae Challenge Trophy which will be awarded at the Spring Horse Show will count the Program Ride or Dressage Phase as one-fourth part of the competition for the Cup). At commands given by Mr. Walther, the participants executed various movements—e.g. circles, and change of lead at the canter—and were judged by Captain Littauer and Mrs. Miller on position, transitions, tact, authority, correct use of aids and general performance.

Not until Friday night at the lecture at the stables did Captain Littauer and Mr. Walther announce that Pat Lanham had won FIRST PLACE, Sandy Zick came in second, Cyn Michaels took third and Claire Williams received fourth place. Congratulations and encouragement flew around the room and soon the atmosphere changed to the hilarious—Captain Littauer amused everyone with humorous anecdotes of his experiences in riding. The high-point of the evening came when he presented a certificate of merit to the Best Rider of MWC—Vickey Walthers—Mr. Walther's proud prodigy of nine. On that happy note, the two day session came to an end—with several results: 1. The riders have been inspired to work and produce their best efforts in the Spring Show and 2. Captain Littauer's book, "Common Sense Horsemanship," sales have BOOMED.

Marion Lee confers with Captain Vladimir Littauer as he judges the dressage phase of the Alumnae Trophy competition.
